

COVID-19 Update for Devens: October 30, 2020

Risk Level in Devens: The Administration releases daily and weekly data on the average daily cases per 100,000 residents, average percent positivity, and total case counts, for all 351 Massachusetts cities and towns. As of October 29, 2020, the risk level remains low in all three surrounding towns (Ayer, Harvard, and Shirley). Because Devens is not a town or city, to help ensure the health and safety of Devens residents, businesses, and organizations, the Devens Enterprise Commission, acting in its capacity as the local Board of Health, has adopted the most stringent risk level for Devens as identified for the Towns of Ayer, Harvard, and Shirley on the Massachusetts Department of Public Health (DPH) weekly reports, and will institute the applicable risk level restrictions as outlined by the DPH and Governor's emergency COVID-19 orders. As of October 28, 2020, Devens remains in the yellow or low-risk category (Phase 3 Step 2). What does this mean for Devens?:
